

QUARTER 2, 2017
 KANSAS DOMESTIC AIR TRAVEL SUMMARY

Passenger air travel represents an important source of visitation to most states and metropolitan areas. Visitors that travel by air tend to stay longer at their destination and spend more than other travelers. The summary of air travel data shown here provides an overview of the trends, seasonality and the relative importance of air travel. The specific origins where trips were initiated, competitive destinations and market penetration rates can be the focus of more detailed analyses.

U.S. Domestic Air Arrivals to Kansas and West North Central Census Division, 2016 (Millions)

Visitor Arrivals per 100 residents Kansas and West North Central Census Division, 2016

The West North Central Division includes the states of Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Findings are based on the Origin and Destination Survey of the U.S. Department of Transportation. This survey represents a 10 percent sample of the ticket itineraries of domestic passenger flights of U.S. air carriers.

More detailed analyses, including states and metropolitan areas, are available from Dean Runyan Associates, Inc.

Kansas, West North Central Census Division and U.S. Visitor Arrivals, Year 2000 = 100

